

Ryan S. Daniels, CFA, is a partner and the group head of Healthcare Equity Research at William Blair & Company. He also serves as the firm's lead analyst covering healthcare technology, digital health, and healthcare services--a role he has held since joining the organization in 2002. With more than two decades of experience, Daniels is recognized as a leading analyst in the healthcare sector, known for his deep insights into healthcare technology, services, and emerging market trends.

Before his tenure at William Blair, Daniels worked in Deloitte Consulting's M&A Advisory Services Group, with a focus on healthcare transactions. He holds a B.A. in economics from Northwestern University--where he was a scholarship athlete and member of the two-time Big Ten Championship football program--and an M.B.A. from the Kellogg School of Management - Northwestern University.

Daniels has been acknowledged for his analytical prowess; notably, he has been ranked in The Wall Street Journal's "Best on the Street" survey for his coverage of healthcare providers and is a two-time StarMine award winner for his stock picks in the healthcare services and HCIT sectors.

At William Blair, Daniels produces research periodicals such as his annual Consumer-Centric Healthcare piece, as well as weekly In Case You Missed It insights and his Quarterly Healthcare Mosaic Reports, which explore emerging healthcare industry themes such as digital health innovation, provider burnout, the evolution of value-based care, aging-in-place, and healthcare cost-containment solutions. These reports offer strategic insights for public- and private-market investors and stakeholders navigating the evolving healthcare landscape.

Daniels is also a frequent contributor to William Blair's "Thinking Presents" podcast series, where he discusses a variety of key megatrends impacting the U.S. healthcare marketplace.

Based in Chicago, Daniels resides in Highland Park, IL with his wife Lilla, and two sons, David and Dylan. In his free time, he enjoys hiking and working out and also is an avid fisherman.