

Bio: Sarah Mansouri

Sarah Mansouri is an experienced healthcare leader and change-maker with a passion for expanding access to high-quality behavioral healthcare for Medicaid populations. As Market President at Wayspring, she leads client and state relationships in Kentucky, overseeing three full-risk, value-based Medicaid contracts with more than $400 million in medical spend at risk, and guiding strategic collaboration and performance efforts to drive measurable outcomes for members and partners. Prior to joining Wayspring, Sarah served as Chief of Staff at Psych Hub and as Director of Health Policy and Strategy / Chief of Staff at TennCare, Tennessee's Medicaid program. At TennCare, Sarah focused on developing value-based care models, shaping statewide behavioral health initiatives, and activating TennCare's response to the opioid epidemic. She is the author of more than 20 peer-reviewed research studies and holds a master's degree in public health and a bachelor's degree in neuroscience and public health from Vanderbilt University. Sarah lives in Sylvan Park with her husband David, their 1-year-old son, Noah, and dogs, Houston and Dolly.
