

Igor Enin, FSA, MAAA — Director, PwC Health Actuarial and Economics

Igor is a Director and actuary in PwC's Health Industries practice with 15+ years of experience helping payers, providers, and risk-bearing organizations evaluate and manage value-based care performance. His work focuses on translating claims, risk adjustment, quality, and utilization data into practical strategies for improving cost, revenue, and accountability under risk-based payment models. Igor has advised organizations across Medicare Advantage, Commercial, Medicaid, MSSP, ACO REACH, and other VBC arrangements. He has also supported providers in assessing CMS TEAM model considerations and early financial performance projections, bringing a practical perspective on episode-based accountability, care continuum economics, and operational readiness. Igor is a Fellow of the Society of Actuaries and Member of the Academy of Actuaries.
