

Dr. Bachwani serves as Corporate Vice President and Chief Medical Information Officer (CMIO) at Community Health Systems, bringing over 20 years of clinical expertise as a practicing Emergency Physician and a decade of executive leadership in healthcare technology. A board-certified Clinical Informaticist and a Fellow of the American Medical Informatics Association (AMIA), he holds a PhD in Information Science from the University at Albany (SUNY). In his current role, Dr. Bachwani oversees the Clinical Informatics strategy across the enterprise. His recent focus has been on the integration of AI agents and advanced clinical decision support within clinical workflows to elevate patient care and reduce the cognitive burden on clinicians.