

Anne Hancock Toomey is President and Founding Partner of Jarrard, a top national strategic communications consulting firm devoted to healthcare. With more than 25 years of healthcare experience, she is recognized by industry leaders for her insights into authentic leadership, organizational change and navigating the complexities of today's healthcare environment. Under Anne's leadership, Jarrard serves the top brands in healthcare with sharp counsel on strategic growth, change management and issue navigation. She also serves on the Executive Leadership Team of Chartis, a leading healthcare consulting firm that acquired Jarrard in 2020 and is backed by Blackstone. Anne is a frequent industry speaker and host of The Backstory, a podcast featuring highly effective and truly authentic leaders in healthcare and beyond. She serves on the board of the Nashville Health Care Council and as board chair for Faith Family Medical Center, a non-profit charitable care clinic in Nashville.